Volám sa Barbora. Moja prezývka je Barbie. Od malička som chcela vyzeráť ako Barbie bábika. Môj sen si tak nejak plniť dodnes. Dlhé blond vlasy a veľké pery sú pre mňa základom každej živej Barbie.

Na Slovensku ma vyhlásili za prvú Slovenskú Barbie. Budem sa stále snažiť pracovať na tom aby som sa čím ďalej viacej podobala na živú Barbie. V mojom meste v ktorom žijem som otvorila Barbie Salón. Je to prvý Barbie Salón na Slovensku. V podstate je to kadernícky salón celý v Barbie prevedení s Barbie shopom. Predávajú sa u mňa veci od Matella a všetko čo by mala správna živá Barbie na sebe mať. Som kaderníčka a každej mojej zákazníčke sa snažím urobiť dokonalý účes. Naplňa ma robiť ženy krajšími. Obliecť ich do Barbie oblečenia a spraviť dokonalé vlasy. Mojim snom je Barbie salóny otvoriť vo viacerých mestách a byť najväčšou podobou Barbie bábiky.

Niekedy keď som v obchode nakupujem alebo idem po ulici počujem hovoriť ľudí ako si šepkajú "pozri na ňu veď vyzerá ako Barbina". Alebo že pozri ona je ako Barbie z plastu. No mňa takéto veci veľmi tešia. Teším sa z nich. Nemám žiadne plastiky iba zväčšené pery. Pás mám prirodzené strašne úzky čo ľudí ešte viac udivuje aby sa zamnou otáčali.

One of my dreams is to go over to Thailand and Cambodia and volunteer with the elephants. I've had the pleasure of swimming with manatees and plenty of wildlife encounters! I've been to almost all 50 states but my goal is to travel more outside of the country. I work with animals and the elderly so I get the best of both worlds. I'm beyond blessed to have an amazing family and support system. I'm a fur mom and a Virgo to the "T"!

Born on a rock

Born and raised in Hawaii on the small island of Kauai. Jason "Jrock" Lagmay couldn't have strayed away from art as a passion if he tried. If Jason's mother wasn't waiting tables trying to make ends meet. Or dancing the night away to Cyndi Lauper at the local disco. As an aspiring artist she would spend hours on end sketching then painting at the kitchen table with Jason as copilot until he was dead asleep. In elementary school as a child Jason would sketch surfboard designs and surf inspired tee shirts and sell them to his classmates for their lunch money or an extra milk or two. In middle school, it wouldn't be uncommon to see delinquent kid or two at school in the 80's and 90's with a tattoo, in Hawaii. Jason got his first tattoo at the age of 13 in the middle school restroom with his cousin, while skipping class. I mean if you didn't have those three dots between your thumb and forefinger or a dollar sign hand poked on your ankle, who were you really? And yes he quotes, "I got the shit beaten out of me by both parents when they finally found Waldo." Freshman year his parents packed up the family and moved to the greener pastures of Washington state. From surfing and Bob Marley all day under the tropical sun. To Nirvana, country music, 17 degrees and snowing. Aaaaahh(sigh) the 90's. Where the next few tattoos to Jason's collection happened when you would call this little plastic box you could hold in the palm of your hand caller a "beeper". A beer and an hour later, the keeper of this beeper would call you back and you would verbally give them your location. Another hour/beer later you could hear the rolling thunder of a bearded man on his Harley Davidson with a Astro van following behind with his family and tattoo equipment aboard. Few hours and 18 stories later a plastic wrapped Superman or 90's tribal was born.

Fast forward to the early 2000's, after hanging out at tattoo shops throughout Seattle. Jason was slowly peer pressured into an apprenticeship. After moving back to Hawaii in 2008, he started working full time as a tattoo artist at a busy street shop on Kauai. His apprenticeship in Seattle was Asian based art, inspired by the likes of Aaron Bell amongst others. Working back in Hawaii, American traditional became more prevalent with the history of maritime tattooing in the ports. Along with American traditional beach scenes, turtles, flower's and shaka's. Polynesian tribal flew out the door like hot cakes. Working back on the island Jason worked alongside a longtime friend and pirate Cory Alemeda. The timing for their friendship couldn't have been better. Besides tattooing, painting and whiskey benders, Jason started building his own tattoo machines. Cory on the other hand was apprenticed by the machine doctor himself, Joel Dodds, 15 years prior. Jason milked ol Milky(Cory) for all the knowledge he had on the topic and soon started shipping his one off machines across the pacific. Some of them being daily drivers for some of our industries legendary artists. After keeping himself busy in Hawaii for a hand full of years he started traveling, tattooing throughout South America and western parts of North America. Soon Jason found himself moving him and his family to Southern California in Orange County. He now works at the world famous American Vintage tattoo in the city of Orange. And as of recent now owns the shop he worked under for years on Kauai, renaming it Ke Aloha tattoo. You can find him hopping between both places during the year, spending most of the summer on Kauai. He specializes in American traditional, Polynesian tribal and anything that walks in the door that doesn't effect his dignity. You can inquire for a consultation or appointment via email at Jrocktatts@yahoo.com or if your in the Southern California area at Americanvintageoc.com Follow him on instagram at @Jrocktatts

I have dreams of being in front of the camera, but also behind it. I found a love for modeling different creative photo shoots, but also have started pursuing my dream of being a full time photographer. I currently work in a pharmacy, but I hope a to work full time as my own boss doing photography full time. I want to inspire women because everyone is beautiful, and sometimes it takes the right person to help you see that. We all come in different shapes and sizes, and it's who you are that makes you gorgeous.

My goals and dreams are to be a trauma and neuro surgeon. Currently a Paramedic and working towards going to med school. I have 3 kids, and did it at a young age because I thought cancer would get in the way and destroy my dream of bearing children. Here I am being a model as well as a first responder.
